Sunny delight

Dolce & Gabbana is setting the summer off right with "Sunset in Salina," a limited-edition offshoot of the brand's popular Light Blue fragrance. The new smell takes its name from an Aeolian island off the coast of the design duo's beloved Sicily. Expect crisp notes of vine leaves, orange flower and jasmine accented with hints of amber and white musk. In other words, it's a Mediterranean vacation with superhunk David Gandy, star of the scent's campaign, distilled into a pocket-sized bottle.

Wig out

George Northwood — the hairstylist behind Alexa Chung's cool-girl bob — has launched a consultation-based "Bob Bar" in his namesake West End Salon in association with Redken. Before locks are chopped, Chung fans can try on four bobbed wigs to see how they look with different lengths and with or without bangs. They can also check out a Pinspiration board of images. "The main aim is to provide women with the confidence to take the chop," says Northwood. "I believe that we are all just a bob away from brilliance"

Consultations with haircut start at about $318, georgenorthwood.com

PARIS

From $180 for a massage with Nado, l'essentiel-paris.com

Joie de spa

After nearly two decades as a high-profile masseuse, makeup artist and wellness coach Elisabeth Nado has finally opened her very own spa. The new spot, L'Essentiel Paris, offers de-stressing, slimming and mother-to-be massages in an elegant 19th century Parisian apartment, along with a mélange of health and fitness programs. Massage classes and nutritious cooking lessons with Sophie de Courcel are also on the menu. While Nado remains discreet about her celebrity clients, her hourlong massages with essential oils are famously transporting.

Tonic youth

Good news for anti-aging aficionados:

Estée Lauder

is introducing a new skincare line in July that sounds like the next best thing to plastic surgery. Dubbed New Dimension, the collection is designed to define the face's contours. The "Shape + Fill Expert Serum" helps to "visibly lift cheeks and the jawline by improving both visible volume and structure," while "Expert Liquid Tape" is designed to "help firm, tone and give a more sculpted, lifted look around eyes." Ageless beauty Eva Mendes is fronting the collection, so expect a stunning campaign come fall.

IT was a test of her acting skills. Sarah Gadon, the Canadian actress and new face of Giorgio Armani Beauty, was about to film a scene with "Fifty Shades of Grey" hunk Jamie Dornan for their upcoming psychological thriller, "The 9th Life of Louis Drax." It was their first scene together. It was a makeup scene. And she was sick with strep throat.

"The night before, I felt so guilty," says Gadon, 28, during a lunch break for her Alexa photo shoot in her hometown of Toronto. Though her features are storybook-heroine dainty, Gadon's manner is forthright and unfussy. Between shots, she scuffs around in a slouchy cardigan, and as she talks, she
